Democratic Ticket, 1852.

FOR PRESIDENT,
STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, of Illinois.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
R. M. T. HUNTER, of Virginia.

FRIDAY, : : DECEMBER 5, 1851.

The Editor of the Journal has endorsed the message, Cuba doctrine and all. Well, we did not expect anything better. Spain is now the injured party, and must be conciliated. The blood of fifty-two butchered men, and the captivity and barbarous imprisonment of 160 more, is not sufficient. Our credit with other nations is at stake, and we must show as little sympathy with the sufferers as possible, and a marvellous zeal for laws and treaties.

Spain, it seems from accounts, will be reconciled and forgive us, if we will salute her flag, and thus show our repentance for the sins of some unfortunate men who felt too much zeal for republicanism. We hope she is now satisfied. The President has sufficiently humbled himself in the message to merit a pardon for his vulgar republicanism. If she will not release those prisoners now, the case is hopeless. We had rather burn up all the powder in Orleans in honor of Spain than to have suffered the indignity of a President's message of such a kind.

Then, to take so tamely the interference of France and England in the case is an outrage. Had Cuba been near the British islands she would have been our ally, and we would have sent our navy such as she sent to her, she would have resented it in a moment, and required an apology for the act. Her conduct is a national insult; but it is only noticed because England is welcome to do only what she does, only she must not do something else. The offence is already committed. If we submit to what has been done, we need not finish at consequences.

Shall England and France be allowed to crush a republican party in Cuba, if such a party should strike for independence? Shall we sit by quietly and see it done? They have openly proclaimed their determination to do so, and indicated the means to be used for the purpose.

We are mortal with a vengeance! Let despots interfere to crush a republic on our own borders, and we act as lookers on.

This will not do. Now, quote Van Buren or Jackson. It will take all the world and the rest of mankind to convince the people of this country that Old Hickory would take tamely all this, if he were living. We protest now and ever against such policy.

If we expect credit for such conduct in Europe, we are grossly deceived. The name of an American citizen will be a by-word to be scoffed at, if such conduct in our government is tolerated.

THE TARIFF PASTOR'S PANIC.—During the last summer this country suffered from a bank panic, draining six and a half millions of dollars to the banks at New York alone, while the directors received "half and comfort" in additional losses of half a million. The manufacturers on the seaboard, already afflicted of profits by the high price of the cotton crop of 1850, were grievously pinched by this additional trouble. Their groans have reached the willing ears of the cabinet at Washington, and their aspirations for protection have received vent and articulation through the message of the President. Specific duties must be adopted as the entering wedge for the tariff of 1842.

The outcry against the reduction and change of that tariff was based upon its effect on the revenue, to which protection by it was alleged to be but an incidental and minor feature, and its demolition would destroy the revenue from customs and leave the country in accumulating debt. Mr. Secretary Corwin, after the full introduction of the tariff of 1842, piled up figures to show its fatal tendencies and frightful results on this head. The results demolished his figures as any phantoms of a whig brain, laboring under diseases "cousa de megalomania," and now the President unfortunately exhibits similar morbid symptoms.

Taking the summer quarter before the cotton crop of '51 was brought forward, and while the suspended navigation of the western streams added to the early season to prevent provisions from progressing to market, he assumes that the unusual export of specie will continue through the present year. The President does not allude to the amount of railway and municipal bonds sold in New York and Boston, during last spring and summer, for railway iron, causing shipments of specie for iron rails in advance of the cotton and grain crop, as also of the bonds themselves, which will ultimately seek and find a European market. The bank panic checked the flow of these bonds from the seaboard to Europe, because European capitalists were fearful of a revolution where there was so much outcry of distress.

The yearly fifty million from California is not estimated as requiring an export of specie to Europe to equalize the amount of specie through the business world. Money, like water, cannot be pent up at its source.

But the startling character of the recommendation to change materially the tariff of 1842, for more efficient protection, is exhibited in the figures of the same message, announcing a prospective surplus of twenty millions. The tariff of '46 was too low by whig logic for the revenue standard. With a large surplus, it must be raised for protection, and consequently a greater surplus for Galphian or internal improvements must be furnished. Not accusing the presidency of the odium of the first cause of treasury leakage, he couples the recommendation for the broad margin of internal improvement with an increase of the tariff. More money—more centralization and consolidation! Duck river may yet become known to the whig vocabulary by an appropriation, under whig recommendation, to "improve the navigation thereof."

We do not complain of any improvements to correct valuations and detect frauds. The details of the act of '46 may well be amended in this particular, but the feudal system of specific duties and specific taxes have had their day and been exploded. Let every one pay in indirect, as is unquestionably right in direct taxes, according to value. The customs of '46 are now too high, and require reduction both for freedom of trade, for the exchanges of products, and to prevent a surplus in treasury always dangerous to republics.

The manufacturers have already received such protection as to enhance their profits beyond those of the British manufacturer, and draw to them capital from other pursuits at the rate of 7 or 8 per cent. per annum. The British manufacturer operates on a capital with 3 and 4 per cent. with half the price for labor of our own. Yet our tariff has enabled our manufacturer to draw capital from opening new lands and agriculture generally, by a successful competition with England under these enormous disadvantages. Do we not "pay too dear for the whistle" already? By our present duties we cannot buy in the cheapest market, because the articles are saddled with a tax averaging 30 per cent., and we pay 30 per cent. premium.

The Editor of the Journal speaks of Allen as a leading democrat of Massachusetts. He and Giddings, of Ohio, are two of the Journal's leading democrats. They call their faction the free democracy. A very large portion of the whig party have left whiggery and taken up with a free democracy. They seem to be particularly exasperated with their old associates of the whig party. In Massachusetts they denounce the whigs fiercely. It is very natural that they should. The whigs pretended to be the fathers of all the free-soilism extant, until they elected a President through their zeal against slavery; then the whig President, Secretary, &c., didn't stand up to their pledges to their abolition allies, as well as expected.

The free-soilers became filled with wrath, and have been fierce to beat whigs everywhere for their treachery. They even vote for democrats to beat them. Prentice makes mouths at them for this, and calls them democrats outright.

The Weekly Flag, from Newport, made its appearance upon our table yesterday morning. Pike is the same old fish, and we hope the democracy of that region will do him the justice he deserves, in his able and untiring devotion to their principles.

The Editor of the Journal thinks the whigs have done well in not spending all the cash in the treasury of the United States. On the other hand, it is greatly to the credit of the tariff of '46 that it has so filled the treasury that even whigs can't empty it.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

(Correspondence of the Louisville Democrat.)
BENICIA, (Cal.) Oct. 27, 1851.

MEANS. Editors: I have recently received a number of letters from substantial farmers and gentlemen of fortune in your country, the purport of which is generally—Does California hold out inducements to farmers and gentlemen of fortune to emigrate for the purpose of finding permanent homes? I know of no better mode of answering them, than through your widely circulated journal.

I shall give no opinion of my own, but state facts upon which they may rely, and they may form their own opinions.

The lands, as proven by experiments already made, are more productive than those of the richest Ohio and Mississippi bottoms. Many specimens of our vegetable productions have been sent to the old States. I saw an onion, well formed, in a single bulb, which weighed four pounds, which I understood was sent by a gentleman here, to his wife, living in your city. This was grown with no other irrigation than when it was first set out. Potatoes, cabbage, beets, radishes, turneps, carrots, tomatoes, &c., are larger, finer-flavored, and a better yield than I have ever seen elsewhere. Wheat, barley, and oats are better and more abundant, and I have never heard of rust, or fly. The smallest crop of wheat I have heard of was Capt. Sutter's crop, in 1842, when he only got five bushels to the acre. The average may be safely set down at over thirty bushels to the acre. Indian corn was thought to be a failure; but this season, Mr. Young, from Missouri seed, partial irrigation, and proper cultivation, has raised over fifty bushels of sound corn to the acre, the stalks growing to 12 or 14 feet high, while the California seed, on the same kind of land, and the same culture and irrigation, was not more than four feet high.

FRUITS.—The grapes of every description are finer here than I have seen. The same may be said of peaches. The apples and peaches are improving exactly in proportion to the improvements made in the kind of seed or trees introduced, which leave no doubt that, with the improvements which are already made elsewhere, we shall have as good as you have in Kentucky or Ohio. Strawberries, and many of the smaller fruits, grow spontaneously to considerable perfection, and with good cultivation, will be equal to the vegetables raised here. Many of the tropical fruits may be raised here; and the Sandwich Islands are more convenient to us than the West Indies are to you.

The returns for surplus produce must continue at a price which will pay well, from two other facts—the commercial and mineral resources—which I will mention in their proper places. A title which will hold, can be had for lands—either the old Mexican claim, or preemption, or the regular land sales under the United States.

Our position, as a grand centre of the commerce of the world, certainly offers sufficient inducements to the man of trade to settle permanently.

The miners, with all their varied interests, have shown no symptoms of a failure. Much more gold has been taken out this season than any previous season; and it is universally acknowledged here, that they will increase in value in proportion to the introduction of machinery and other facilities, which we have not now.

The climate, on the peninsula of San Francisco, I acknowledge is cold, damp, and unpleasant; but sixteen miles from there, on the whole range of the coast, and until you reach the interior valleys, say a district of thirty miles wide, and six hundred miles long, comprehending the finest lands in the world, is equal to any one single point on earth; an atmosphere which you cannot produce by labor, or buy with money. With these facts before you, there are two other questions, and both of them depend upon the people who settle in California.

Society must be made good, or bad, by the people who come here to settle. Like all new countries, the hardy and adventurous pioneers make the first character, which is always changed to a greater or less extent by those who follow. So far, California has been filled up with money-hunters, who intend to go home as soon as they get a few hundred dollars—only a very small proportion who have not left ties behind, which prevents them from seeing the facts which surround them. But if the young farmers of Kentucky, of good character and industrious habits, will bring their wives and children to California, and settle in our fertile valleys, society will soon be what they may choose to make it; and there is no country on earth where the means of educating a family can be so easily procured as here.

The laws are now emphatically bad, but the laws as well as the constitution, are now in the hands of the people, and may, and probably will, be altered from time to time to suit the character of the people. So far, our legislators were here to make money and not to stay; therefore, they sold their votes for money. But when the population shall become permanent, the legislators will be citizens of the State, and their own interests will induce them to make good and wholesome laws.

With these facts before you, let me ask why the millionaire may not move to California?—Mr. Wm. Astor, with his millions, can not buy a pleasant night's rest on a summer night in New York. He may turn over his bags of gold, in the coolest room in the city; yet, wet with perspiration, he rolls and turns with the sultry heat; and, after an almost sleepless night, rises in the morning unrefreshed. In California the poorest laborer may roll himself up in a blanket or two, and lie down under a tree, or in the humblest cottage, he is neither too cold nor too hot; and in the morning feels more like the prince, than the man of millions.

In the winter, when the earth on your side (same latitude) is locked in the chains of frost, and all nature looks dead and dead, the cattle stand shivering in their stalls, and men, if they go into the street, are loaded with wool and furs. Heat your rooms to any point short of suffocation; but with your millions you cannot buy one mouth full of that soft, balmy, refreshing and pleasant air, that sweeps over your hills and plains at all seasons; and can be had by the poor and the rich, only for the trouble of breathing it.

There is, within ten miles of the Straits of Carquinez, (on which Benicia and Vallejo are situated) on both sides, at least sixty thousand acres of valuable lands, much of which is located in the richest valleys, affording the finest garden spots, and on plains and elevations offering to the eye the most extensive and majestic scenery, and pure and fresh water in great abundance. Suppose your farmers and gardeners come and settle on these lands, and your gentlemen of fortune come and select positions commanding extensive views of the most beautiful bay in the world; the hills, gently undulating but smooth, covered with interminable fields of oats, and the distant but grand "Sierra Nevada," with its crown of perpetual snow, belted with the evergreen pine tree; there build his castle, and when too warm upon a winter looking to the west, and he may breathe a balmy breeze which the wealth of nations cannot buy; and when the rains of December, accompanied, as they always are, by a mild climate, shall mantle the hills and meadows with the green grass, he may then look through his window at the falling rain, and be comfortable without the aid of fire.

His horses and his hounds may frisk in the soft and mild rains without detriment even to the smoothness of their hair. Then society will be improved; Schools, Colleges and Universities will go up, the laws will be amended, and California will be what the God of Nature designed her for—The Paradise of earth.

Yours truly,
R. SEMPLE.

It will be seen by advertisement that the semi-annual meeting of the stockholders of the Merchants' Louisville Insurance Company takes place at their office this afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

A large four-story brick building, to be occupied as a restaurant, is about completed, at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets.

Chapman's Varieties.
This popular place of amusement continues to be the centre of attraction. Harry Chapman is indefatigable in his exertions to please the public, and so far he seems to have succeeded.

On Monday evening the celebrated Ravel Family will appear.

The bill for this evening's performance is quite attractive, and we advise those who wish to spend an hour in the most agreeable manner to go to Chapman's Varieties.

The seaboard and Roanoke railroad has been completed from Portsmouth, Va., to Neldon, North Carolina.

J. R. Holst will sell at auction, to-morrow evening, a superior lot of household and kitchen furniture, dry goods, &c. See advertisement.

Mr. M. Parodi, the agent for Mlle Teresa Parodi, reached Louisville yesterday for the purpose of arranging for her concert, which will be given at Mozart Hall, on Wednesday or Thursday evening of next week. Due notice will be given through our columns.

The vote in Franklin county, in favor of the subscription of $200,000 stock to railroad to Harrodsburg, was 620 for it and 487 against it.

In Mercer county the vote in favor of the subscription was carried by 375 majority.

Satterwhite & Peaslee have just received a fine lot of lake oysters from New Orleans, per steamer Georgetown, the first that have been brought to this market the present season. As all like to judge for themselves in such cases, we recommend them to the Court Exchange for further particulars.

A large number of returned Californians arrived at St. Louis on Monday last, on the steamers Columbus and Atlantic.

Two thousand one dollar bills, and six hundred five dollar bills, were destroyed by fire in the Mayor's office, at Cincinnati, on Thursday. They were all counterfeit.

Mr. O. M. Vail has a choice stock of groceries and all the good things in his line for the table.

Messrs. Osborne and Green will sell at auction regularly on Wednesdays and Saturdays. They will also attend to out-door sales of furniture, &c., and to selling real estate at auction, when called upon to do so. We commend these gentlemen to the public as eminently qualified to discharge this character of business.

(Reported for the Louisville Democrat.)
POLICE COURT.
HON. JOHN JOYCE, JUDGE.

James Dow was arraigned on a charge of taking a pair of pants out of a trunk on a steamboat; bail in $300 for one year.

John Marshall, f. m. c., charged with robbing a man named Lynch of various articles of clothing and jewelry; bail in $1000.

Several Germans took the final oath.

In our issue of Saturday last we stated that we had received a long communication reviewing the management of the Louisville and Frankfort railroad, which, however, we did not publish. We then stated that we did not believe the Superintendent so much in fault for the mismanagement of the road as the Board of Directors who, doing and undoing their own acts so often, the necessary system could not be established. Two members of the Board think we do them injustice by this remark.

We claim to be as much the friends of the road as any director in the board, and hence would cheerfully correct our remark if erroneous. Our information was furnished by another, and if we find upon examination and enquiry where the blame properly attaches we shall "speak out" and certainly never all members of the board from such a charge, if their action do not substantiate the statement made.

HORN, WELLS AND BRIGGS' SERENADES.
Last Night—Mozart Hall was again filled to overflowing last night, to witness the performance of this talented troupe. To-night they give their last concert in this city, and those of our citizens who have not yet seen them, and desire to enjoy a rich treat, should not fail to be in attendance. The Dutch Drill between Wells and Horn, which is produced every evening, is decidedly the drollest thing of the kind we have ever seen, and always calls forth shouts of laughter. The entertainment to-night is of more than ordinary interest, and we shall be disappointed if Mozart Hall is not crowded to its utmost capacity.

A NEW PAPER IN KENTUCKY.—Last night's mail brought us the first number of the Somerset (Ky.) Gazette, a paper just commenced at Somerset by John P. Bruce. It is medium size and printed in clear and distinct type. Judging from the number before us, Mr. B. will produce a paper that cannot fail to command a liberal patronage in Somerset and the surrounding country.

INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE FOR DECEMBER.—"Literature in Shires."—Dr. Johnson said that "he never read a book through"—to such a person and even the majority of readers such a work as the International is a decided relief. The present number furnishes an agreeable dish from a general sketch of Mormonism and John Smith, with well executed engravings of a birds eye view of the reforms in the military system of the Turkish empire, and many other gems of literature. It may be found at Hagan's, 4th street.

An interesting letter from our California correspondent will be found on the first page.

Everybody should see the fine Panorama of the Garden of Eden, now on exhibition at Odd Fellows' Hall. As a work of art it is unsurpassed.

The Louisville Guards had a meeting to-night, for the purpose of nominating candidates for an election of officers on Friday evening next. They also intend making arrangements to have a splendid ball on Christmas eve.

The celebrated Baker family, now in Washington city, will be in Louisville the latter part of this month.

We notice another Frankfort letter, signed Festus, in the columns of a city paper yesterday. This one is all his own. A great part of a former one was stolen from a prospectus of Willis of the Home Journal.

The stolen part was much the best. Take notice, friend, and steal the rest!

Mrs. Julia Dean is playing a successful engagement at Nashville.

See first page for Miscellaneous News.

We copy the following clever notice of our young townsmen, from the Nashville Union of the 3rd inst.

"Dr. Robert Breckinridge of Louisville is spending a few days in our city. The Doctor has given us a specimen of the advantages of his early education in the shape of a review, which was well attended by his medical brethren. It is worth being read to have the pleasure of Dr. Bob's company."

FOR MAYOR.
JOSEPH NEWMAN, Esq. is a candidate for Mayor of the city of Louisville.

LOST.
On Tuesday the 3rd inst. in this city, a White Spaniel Dog. A description of the dog will be given in this office, where a liberal reward will be paid for its recovery.
